Hello, Sarah Richardson speaking from the youth centre. I'm calling about the party you are organising. I'm afraid I have bad news for you. There has been a misunderstanding concerning the room I offered you yesterday. Unfortunately, it's already been booked by someone else for the Saturday you wanted it. There is another room available though. It is only slightly smaller. As I can't reach you right now, I'll reserve it for you anyway. I'm really sorry about the misunderstanding. Could you please call me back tomorrow at the latest and tell me whether you want the other room for Saturday or not? I'll be in the office until five o'clock this afternoon and tomorrow from ten to three. No, wait,... I'll only be in at eleven tomorrow morning. My number is 449421609. Thanks and good bye!

II.

Hi, this is Tony speaking. I've just talked to Kevin from the band. He asked me if they could bring their instruments to the youth centre in the afternoon already. Apparently the soundcheck will take quite a lot of time. I don't know when you will get the keys for the room, so could you please call Kevin and fix a time with him for Saturday afternoon? His number is 610019710. You can reach him until nine o'clock tonight.

Oh, I almost forgot, there is another little problem. The band has no car on Saturday to transport the equipment to the youth centre. Didn't your brother offer to give them a ride the other day? Could you ask him again, please? Thanks. See you tomorrow! Bye!

III.

Hello, it's me, Anna. I'm calling you because I don't have Fiona's number. Could you please ask her whether she's already sent the invitations for the party? I met some of my classmates in the shopping centre today and they asked me on what day the party was going to be and at what time. Could you please tell Fiona to send the invitations to everyone by email if possible. It's a lot faster than letters and there is not much time left until Saturday.

I also wanted to know if you still need help with the decorations. If so you can call me tomorrow morning at my grandmother's house and I'll be at the youth centre earlier on Saturday. Her number is 67510912. See you!
